Through the advantage of keeping spaces seeing that Alexandra Township is overpopulated and therefore our business model to provide the community with Experiential Spaces to maneuver through innovative technology, creative expression, and purposeful design, we aim to provide a platform that ignites curiosity, expands consciousness, and fosters a deep sense of wonder within every participant.

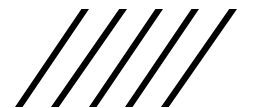

ORGANIZATIONS HISTORY

- Kula Marolen Foundation NPC HQ is situated in what was once a garage in the 1950's that belonged to my late grandparents Mr & Mrs Marolen these artists inspired us without knowing through kept literature, fashion sense, entrepreneurship, ethic, community leadership, consistency the list is endless. These spaces still exist as they were kept spaces of reliving what we used to be a place for the community to meet to tell stories, circle dialogues and celebrate as a Kula family hence the creative space consist of a gallery, museum, library, bioscope, office and a Kitchen. Kept spaces are kept from our first generation to the now- my generation to bring communities together along with sustainable solutions in this dire changing time. We improve the community with Art and Culture that sustained our prior generation and is the answer to the now woes.
- Our existence is a tribute to the efforts of our ancestors in preserving the experiential spaces we have today. We aim to continue their legacy by serving as an information hub on sociology in Alexandra Township. We share their stories through various mediums such as vintage items, cultural artifacts, storytelling, documentaries, artwork, mentorship, and hospitality that promote tourism
